Hi,

New publication on Francophone minority communities in Canada, in partnership with the CIRLM

Title (only available in French): “L’espace francophone en milieu minoritaire au Canada : Nouveaux enjeux, nouvelles mobilisations” (Francophone space in a minority setting in Canada: new stakes, new actions)

Directed by Joseph Yvon Thériault, Anne Gilbert, and Linda Cardinal

Publisher: Les éditions Fides

Date: November 2008

We also wish to underline the chapter written by the CIRLM director, Rodrigue Landry, as well as Kenneth Deveau and Réal Allard, entitled Engagement identitaire francophone en milieu minoritaire.

Publication by a CIRLM researcher in the “Encyclopédie du patrimoine culturel de l’Amérique française”

Website: <http://www.ameriquefrancaise.org/>

You can view Anne Robineau’s article (only available in French) entitled “ « Acadie urbaine » : nouvel espace virtuel du patrimoine acadien contemporain” (Urban Acadia: a new virtual space for contemporary Acadian heritage) at: <http://www.ameriquefrancaise.org/fr/article-246/Acadie%20urbaine:%20nouvel%20espace%20virtuel%20du%20patrimoine%20acadien>.

If you wish to contribute,

The Encyclopedia is presently looking for authors and articles on Acadia. If you wish to submit one or more articles, or share findings from your research on either Acadian history or society (making sure that the information is accessible to the general public), do not hesitate to contact Martin Fournier at Université Laval (Martin.Fournier@celat.ulaval.ca) or Christophe Traisnel at Université de Moncton (christophe.traisnel@umoncton.ca).

For more information, please consult “Historique et résumé du projet” (Background and summary of project) and “Directives aux auteurs” (Instructions for authors).

Grant obtainment from Metropolis

The team, composed of Éric Forgues, Maurice Beaudin, and Josée Guignard Noël, obtained a grant from Metropolis to carry out a study on the migration of Francophones and Anglophones in Canada based on data from the 2006 census.
